SEASON 1937

Dear Friend and Customer:

Sam H. Bober

The experience of last summer proves how severe damage from drought can be and how much human beings and live stock suffer as a result of it. Man cannot control weather and he cannot pass a law to prevent drought. A mixture of good and bad years is certain and mankind must make the best of it. Make your plans now to protect you in the future against being forced to sacrifice live stock in bad years, by planting drought resistant perennials like Alfalfa and wheat grass for hay and pasture, and drought resistant early maturing corn to fill extra corn cribs. And as a safety measure to insure the food supply of the farm family, one should locate the garden near ponds or near wells where it can be irrigated and thereby eliminate the hazards of drought to some extent.

Many of the grass seeds, Alfalfa and Seed Corn are scarce this year. Our stocks are complete but we urge you not to delay buying this year as prices are likely to be higher as the season advances. The prices in this catalog are subject to market price changes after February 25th. Write me when you think of seeds. I will be expecting to get your order early.

Your friend,

SAM H. BOBER.

Sam Bober's Corn Has Yielding Ability and Drought Resistance That You Cannot Buy in Corn Elsewhere

In an impartial test conducted by the State College on high and dry gumbo soil, Sam Bober's Falconer corn, Payne's White Dent, Black Hills Special yellow dent made the best yields, yielding as high as four times as much as some of the other varieties in the same test.

Payne's White Dent—The Record Breaker

80 Day Corn

My Payne's White Dent made a record of 91 bushels of corn to the acre on 10 acres dry land for Jas. McNeil, St. Onge, S. D., in a 10-acre contest. Weighed and measured by government men. J. C. Milne, near Vale, S. D., made another record of 90 bushels per acre. This is not just talk but actual recorded yields. Try at least a bushel against any corn. It will be an eye opener. 1 bu. $3.95; 5 bu. for $19.25.

Black Hills Special—85-Day Corn

Highest Yielding Yellow Dent

This corn made a record of 84 bushels per acre in Butte County. It made the second highest yield for dent varieties, being second to Payne's White in the test conducted by the State College on dry land in Meade County. This is an early selection of Minnesota No. 13 and is the highest yielder of all the yellow dents. 1 bu. $3.95; 5 bu. for $19.25.

Shallow planting on firm ground is best. 1 lb. $1.10; 5 lbs. $5.00, postpaid. Not prepaid, 10 lbs. $9.00; 25 lbs. $18.50. Seed very limited. Order at once.

BUFFALO GRASS PLANTS

This native grass, which seldom produces viable seed, is undoubtedly the most perfect lawn grass for dry conditions in existence. It spreads by means of runners, throws up no tall stalks, but produces a dense mat on the ground—the bent grass of the plains. We list this grass by the 100 plants or stolons. The plants are set out from 6 to 15 inches apart each way. In one season the whole area should fill in. Price per 100 plants, post-paid, $1.00 (enough for about 140 square feet of planting).

PROSO

Professor Hansen's Siberian Proso, the 60-Day Grain and Hay Crop

Prof. N. E. Hansen who introduced Proso grain millet in this country, in his report to the governor of South Dakota, writes as follows: "Dry years show the great value of Proso, the grain millet, cultivated so extensively in Russia. This grain makes a crop when all others fail and has saved Russia from famine many times. One plant of Proso containing 1,500 kernels was brought into Newell last fall. The Latin name (Panicum Mitiaceum) indicates that it may yield a thousand fold. Many farmers have raised 300 pounds, or 5 bushels from one pound of seed in 60 days."

For Poultry

For chickens there is no grain that will produce more eggs. Chicks thrive on it, as it is used by chick feed mixers and shipped all over the United States.

Beats Wheat, Oats and Barley

The yield of Proso varies with soil and season. We had yields of 70 bushels of Proso grain per acre, which is above average and due to favorable conditions. One of our customers, John Keffeler of Meade County, reported threshing 839 bushels of Proso in 4 hours and this from a late planting.

Sam himself behind a bundle of Proso grown on his farm

Reasons for Planting Proso on Every Farm

1. For feeding stock, poultry and everything of that kind Proso is equal or better than wheat. It fattens turkeys better than corn.
2. It produces more eggs than other grain and is a wonderful chick feed.
3. Especially valuable as a catch crop, something that can be planted very late and still mature a grain and hay crop.
4. Many farmers in the middlewest use it to smother and get rid of noxious weeds, because it is such a fast growing crop.
5. Remarkable results are obtained in fattening hogs and cattle with it.
6. Produce two crops on same land, same season, by planting Proso in the stubble after wheat, barley and oats are removed.

Most Drought Resistant Grain

Proso has the lowest water requirement of any grain crop. At the Government Experiment Station at Akron, Colo., only about two-fifths as much water was required to produce a ton of Proso grain as was necessary to produce a ton of Durum wheat.

Planting

Plant 20 pounds per acre on dry land with less than 15 inches annual rainfall and 30 pounds per acre where rainfall is more plentiful any time from May 1st to August 1st with a grain drill, and harvest same way you do grain. Planting 30 pounds per acre has produced three tons of tender hay per acre. Seed is scarce this year. Sudan Grass

We farm 3,000 acres of dry land here on the northern foothills of the Black Hills. Fourteen hundred acres are in Cossack and Grimm alfalfa, perhaps the largest fields of hardy alfalfa in the Northwest. The Cossack alfalfa of which we have over 800 acres has made the best record for yielding ability and drought resistance during last few years of severe drought.

COSSACK ALFALFA

The Greatest of Them All! Prof. N. E. Hansen's Wonder Plant.

This variety of alfalfa is perhaps the greatest of forage plants, and every farm should have a pasture and hayland of it. There are a number of alfalfas grown, but Cossack is the marvel of them all in hardiness and forage production. It will outyield other varieties of alfalfa and is hardier than any of them. Prof. N. E. Hansen, the plant wizard, introduced this alfalfa from Siberia, in an eight inch rainfall country which often gets 60 below zero in the winter with little or no snow. He has added millions of dollars of value to the farms of the Northwest by this one kind of alfalfa—Cossack. Plant 12 pounds to the acre for a solid field of alfalfa.

Field of Cossack Alfalfa

ALFALFA LICKS DROUGHT

Maintains Itself as Corn Belt's Best Hay Crop

Like a friend who sticks by you in time of trouble, alfalfa is more appreciated this year than ever in its history in the corn belt. Alfalfa has stood the test of the worst drought in history, and is now firmly established as hay crop No. 1. With clover and timothy virtually a complete failure, this mighty legume whose roots travel far down in search of moisture remained green and growing through the hottest and driest weather and yielded a good crop of one of the richest hays known. Farmers with alfalfa hay are not suffering from any feed shortage this season.

Our Black Hills Hardy Alfalfa seed produced on the northern foothills of the Black Hills on dry land 3,000 to 4,500 feet above sea level, and subjected to severe weather conditions, will produce hardy plants and give best results. It is cleaned, sacked and sealed in branded bags at our cleaning plant and warehouses at Newell, S. D., and can always be identified by the Trade-Mark shown on the right, which is your assurance of hardiness, yielding ability and long life.
